The Bogus Bonus Bill. To the veterans of the war who glory of the Stars and Stripes THE have to be cancelled. New York Hepain wishes to say that none would rejoice more than it to see our valiant soldiers receive an adequate reward, if such were possible, through a money payment, any way that would make the reward performed. But no reward could thus measure up. To the Congress of the United States THE NEW YORK HERALD Wishes to say that the bonus bill, or so-called adjusted compensation measure, now hensible piece of deceptive, hypocritical legislation it would be possible to foist on the veterans of the war. Dressed up as it is the bill is calculated to make the former service men believe they are going to receive a clean and clear payment for having performed their duty. But they are roing to receive nothing of the sort.

On June 7 last THE NEW YORK large fully understood the fallacies of a bonus raid on the Treasury. which would increase the national debt, run up taxes for the next quarter century or more, increase the cost of living, further depress the price of Liberty bonds and invite general national hardship, they would not for a moment think of sanction-

Islands Off Cornish Coast Where Wind and Sea Rule.

From the London Times.
Some twenty miles southwest from the end of Cornwall the traveller will see a dark blur low on the horizon, presently to resolve itself into a ring of black rocks, capped with green, broken with the white foam of the leaping waves. The ship will slow down, seeming to feel its way round a dangerous and impenetrable coast until a passage opens on the left, and almost in a moment is swung round into the little harbor of Hugh Town on St. Marys.

In front lies a placid expanse, calm as shadows creep

Like wraiths of ancient lore, that ringed round with islands large and green, or small and black, a defence central peace. The pacific illusion will rived at the Hon stormy streams.

Into the restful port of Happy Dreams.
